The Wakefield Town Hall

Nancy Bertrand

In 1871, after the completion of the magnificent Town Hall which had been donated by Cyrus Wakefield, the town undertook to construct a new High School building. For many years prior to the building of the Town Hall, the town, then South Reading, had been conscious of the fact that a new Town Hall was a necessity. Newly freed from the financial burden of constructing such a building, the town turned to its second priority, a High School.

The old South Reading Academy, constructed in 1829, had been previously used as a high school, but increasing enrollments made it necessary to enlarge that building or find new space for the institution.

On April 3, 1871 the Honorable P. H. Sweetser, for many years chairman of the School Committee, formally brought the subject to the attention of Town Meeting by means of an article on the Town Warrant. A committee of five was appointed to consider the subject of the educational needs of the town, to report at a future meeting. This committee consisted of Cyrus Wakefield, Lucius Beebe, Oliver Perkins, Richard Britton and George Packard, who reported to the town meeting in May of 1871 in favor of the immediate purchase of the land and the erection of a "suitable edifice."

After favorable action by town meeting, they (then the Building Committee) purchased the old Prentiss property on the Corner of Lafayette and Common Streets, and constructed an "ample and elegant" structure. Architect John Stevens, who had designed the Town Hall, was the designer of the building.

The building was used for the town's High School until 1923, when the new high school, on the grounds of the former Wakefield mansion, opened on Main Street. At that time, the Lafayette School was converted into a centralized eighth grade to accommodate overcrowding in some of the neighborhood schools. All eighth graders in town, with the exception of the Greenwood School students, attended the Lafayette School. In 1935, $671.35 in federal ERA funds renovated the Lafayette School "for sewing."

In 1936, the eighth graders were returned to their neighborhood schools and the School Committee voted "not to oppose transfer of control of the Lafayette School building."

In that same year, the selectmen's report in the Town Report noted that "Several meetings with representatives of the various military organizations have resulted in a plan to remodel the old Lafayette School ... which would provide additional and much needed municipal offices, and also quarters for the veterans." (At that time, the police department was given space in the Town Hall building. That building also featured a commodious auditorium, used for town meetings, as well as for cultural events and dinners.)

In January, 1937, $17,000 was authorized by Town Meeting for the remodeling work, which was undertaken as a WPA program. The Selectmen's Report read:

As in the past few years, the local administration of the federal relief program, carried on in Wakefield under the Works Progress Administration, has been the greatest problem confronting the Board of Selectmen. With a quota of employees varying between 150 and 315 and a federal contribution of approximately $160,000 paid in salaries during the year, a definite program was undertaken with as much emphasis as possible being placed on construction of a permanent nature. Under a Town meeting vote of January 4, $17,000 was appropriated for the remodeling of the Lafayette School into a building suitable for municipal offices and quarters for the veteran organizations, with the understanding that the work would be done under a federal project. The rebuilding of this school was the major relief project throughout the year. Additional funds were taken from the general W.P.A. account when necessary and at the close of the year the building should be nearing completion.

The following year, an additional $6,700 was appropriated to complete the project; $500 was appropriated for furnishings and equipment for the hall in the building. The result of the WPA work is detailed in a 1992 study done by architect Brian Thomson:

The third floor mansard storey with its fancy work, dormers, towers and lanterns was totally removed. The second floor above what is today the Department of Public Works was removed and a high, flat roof installed to accommodate the auditorium at the first floor. The Common Street entrance was closed and the front porch removed. A new vestibule was created at the Lafayette Street entrance. Numerous interior changes in walls and structure were made in order to change the spatial layout from a school to offices. The gable roof above the Common Street facade was built, and a north wing added on all three levels. The building was reclad in brick veneer with stucco terminations at the existing windows.

In 1938, the Town voted to authorize the Board of Selectmen to grant use of rooms in the Lafayette Building to the Veterans' organizations free of charge.

"Municipal Departments" were also to be located in the building. 1938's Town Report noted that the Lafayette Building "has been used a great deal during the year. The Welfare Board has moved from the Town Hall ... and is greatly pleased with the new quarters."

In 1940, the Lafayette Building provided space for the Selective Service Board of both Wakefield and Reading.

In 1949, the H.M. Warren Camp No. 34, Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War, were granted space in the building as a Memorial Room to the Grand Army of the Republic, where mementos and other records may be kept. By 1950, more space was made available for Municipal Departments in the Town Hall, since the new police station was built in that year.

In that year, the hall in the Lafayette Building was officially renamed the "Memorial Hall," in memory of the World War I and II veterans.

Throughout this period of time, the Hall in the Lafayette Building generated a small revenue for the town; being rented for programs and activities. The hall, the former high school auditorium (where the B.P.W. office is now situated) was equipped with a piano, and fifty chairs, purchased in 1941. The hall was also used by the Recreation Commission for "folk dancing and pageantry," and occasions when a piano was needed.

The Cyrus Wakefield Town Hall was damaged by fire in December of 1950. Throughout the 1950's, discussion raged as to the advisability of repairing and remodeling the building, or tearing it down. One option suggested for the raising of funds for remodeling the Town Hall was the sale of the Lafayette Building, along with the Municipal Light Department Building. The fire damage in the Town Hall was really not that extensive; the building continued to be used for municipal offices throughout the '50's. In 1958, however, the building was torn down, and the Lafayette Building was officially designated the Town Hall.

In 1990, the building was renamed the "William J. Lee Memorial Town Hall."

By the beginning of the 1990's, it was clear that the Lafayette Building was spatially inadequate to meet the needs of the Town of Wakefield as a Town Hall. In addition, the federally mandated American With Disabilities Act would require such extensive repair and revisions that it was, in the minds of some, cheaper to tear the building down than to remodel and restore it.

In May of 1991, the Town Hall Office Committee was created by act of Town Meeting to determine whether Wakefield needed a new town hall. In May of 1992, its responsibilities were increased to include a study of the police and fire stations and/or a municipal complex. A report in progress was made in the fall of 1992 Special Town Meeting; its final report was rendered at the Annual Town Meeting in May 1993.

The recommendations of the committee were to create the plans for a new town hall on the site of the Lafayette Building and for a new Police and Fire Station, in another location. The Town Meeting of 1993 created a new committee to further study the issues.

In 1998, the Town of Wakefield received a Community Development Block Grant to make the Town Hall accessible to the disabled. In addition, the Town contributed its own funds to make some much needed general improvements at the same time. The scope of work, which was designed by architect Kaffee Kang, included a new elevator, exterior stair tower, entrance ramp, entrance canopy, and interior monumental stairway as well as new service counters, new handicapped bathrooms, and office re-configurations.

The building is listed in the National Register of Historic Places.
